ADVERTISEMENT.

The following Catalogue has been prepared under peculiar and embarrassing difficulties.—In March 1836, all the records of the Acting Society were destroyed by fire, and it has therefore been necessary to rely upon the records of the General Society, and information derived from any source which might offer. Consequently it cannot be supposed that the Catalogue will be free from errors;—on the contrary, many may be expected and will undoubtedly be found; but the Committee would state that they have availed themselves of all the means in their power in order to make it as nearly perfect as possible.

It has been almost a matter of impossibility in many cases to ascertain the present residence of individuals, and should any find their place of abode erroneously stated, they will please take into consideration the difficulties under which the Committee have labored, and it is hoped that these will afford a sufficient apology.

It may also be added, that one great end to be attained by the present publication of the list of members, is that of gaining information which shall be advantageous at some future time.

Nov. 1838.
